WINE SPECTATOR
February 2020

94 Points - A knockout example of Dry Creek Zinfandel, this is briary, yet polished and refined, with lively raspberry, grilled anise and cracked pepper flavors that build power and tension toward broad-shouldered tannins. Drink now through 2030. —Tim Fish

ROBERT PARKER'S
WINE ADVOCATE
January 2015

93 Points - The dense purple-colored 2012 Zinfandel Estate Spencer's Hill is the largest cuvée of 628 cases. The densest and richest of these Zinfandels, it offers a big, sweet kiss of baking spices, red and black fruits, a full-bodied mouthfeel, a terrific finish and intensity, but no hard edges. This is an opulent, ostentatious, flamboyant, but still classic Zinfandel in its overall personality. Drink it over the next 5-7 years.
